

Narkis Tessler is CEO of TeraCann, a subsidiary of TeraGroup, introducing terahertz biotech and pharma solutions to the medical cannabis industry. She also serves as managing partner of Blue Pesto LLC, a private investment group which invests in advanced stage start-ups in the ancillary cannabis industry, and is co-moderator of CannaCast IL – Israel's Medical Cannabis Podcast.

Prior to her work in the Cannabis industry, Narkis held executive positions in leading organizations and served as a director in both public and government companies, in industries ranging from infrastructure to tourism to security systems.

Narkis is a member of the Israel Government Companies Authority pool of qualified directors. She holds an MBA from Tel Aviv University in Israel, and a BA from Emory University in the U.S.

In her volunteer work Narkis established 'Directors for Change', an activist group promoting diversity in the boardroom, and has volunteered as a mentor in non-profit organizations, providing strategic consulting to Israel's social non-profits.